“How much is that book worth?” Special Collections Librarians are frequently asked this question. Rare books have many types of value: scholarly, curricular, historical, artifactual, resale. What criteria do appraisers use to measure the value of an individual book? How can Special Collections Librarians select rare books to create curricular context in an academic library? What strategies are useful in building a historical institution’s rare-book collection on a shoestring? Whether you have been in the rare-book field for years or are starting out, join us for illuminating presentations and interesting discussion.

A New England Archivists Summer Program
Wednesday, June 30, 2010
2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.
Goldfarb Library
Brandeis University
415 South Street, Waltham, Massachusetts
$10 for NEA members; $15 for non-members
Refreshments provided

Ken Gloss is the proprietor of The Brattle Book Shop in Boston and past president of the New England Chapter of the Antiquarian Booksellers Association of America.

Jay Satterfield is Head of Special Collections at Dartmouth College.

Maris Humphreys is Special Collections Cataloger at the Redwood Library & Athenaeum in Newport, Rhode Island.

Questions? Call Sarah Shoemaker, Special Collections Librarian, Brandeis University, 781.736.4641, or email sshoemak@brandeis.edu.
Directions and parking information: lts.brandeis.edu/research/archives-speccoll/events
Registration Form

The Worth of a Book
Wednesday, June 30, 2010
2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Goldfarb Library
Brandeis University
415 South Street, Waltham, Massachusetts

Name: ____________________________________________
Title: ____________________________________________
Institution: _______________________________________
Address: __________________________________________
Phone: ____________________________________________
Email: _____________________________________________

Registration enclosed ☐
(Please make check payable to New England Archivists)

Cost: NEA members: $10
Non-NEA members: $15

Mail to:
Elizabeth Slomba
Milne Special Collections and Archives
18 Library Way
Durham New Hampshire 03824

Questions? Email us at: eslomba@unh.edu